The New World Disorder

GIANDOMENICO PICCO

Leaders Without Enemies.....5

The terrorist groups responsible for the September 11 attacks are not so unlike leaders facing the end of the Cold War: they could not exist without an enemy, says the UN director in charge of the Dialogue among Civilizations.

CAROL BELLAMY

The Child's Soldier:

An Interview with UNICEF's Executive Director9

The UNICEF executive director has gained a reputation as an untiring and vocal advocate for the world's children. Now she weighs in on her agency's work in Afghanistan, the U.S. relationship to the UN and a range of other topics.

MICHELE MALVESTI

Bombing bin Laden: Assessing the Effectiveness of Air Strikes as a Counter-Terrorism Strategy17

An evaluation of the United States' three previous counter-terrorist military air strikes reveals a blunt, ineffective instrument that creates a cycle of vengeance with minimal gains.

TOM LANTOS

Durban Debacle: An Insider's View of the

UN World Conference Against Racism.....31

The United States should remember the lessons of the UN's World Conference on Racism as it prosecutes the war on terrorism, says Congressman Tom Lantos, a member of the U.S. delegation at the conference.

W. ROBERT PEARSON

The United States and Turkey:

A Model of Sustained Engagement.....53

The United States could have no better ally than Turkey in its war on terrorism, writes the U.S. Ambassador to Turkey. Facing a range of economic and political challenges, Turkey now needs the United States' sustained engagement.

TOSHI YOSHIHARA AND RICHARD SOKOLSKI

The United States and China in the Persian Gulf:

Challenges and Opportunities63

China's growing interest in the Persian Gulf could put it on a collision course with the United States. The two countries can avoid conflict, however, if they take advantage of their many common interests in the region.

ALFRED P. RUBIN

Applying the Geneva Conventions:

Military Commissions, Armed Conflict, and Al-Qaeda79

President George W. Bush's executive order allowing the establishment of military commissions to try foreigners for acts of terrorism has come under severe criticism. What many have failed to realize is that a simpler solution to the problem exists.

New Modes of International Conflict Resolution

ALVARO DE SOTO

The Peacemaker: An Interview with the UN Under-Secretary-General83

As under-secretary-general at the United Nations, Alvaro de Soto has seen conflict in a way that few others ever will. A top UN mediator presents his view of the world.

JOHN PAUL LEDERACH

Building Mediative Capacity in Deep-Rooted Conflict91

The nature, purpose, and process of mediation must be reconsidered, writes Lederach, a leading theorist on mediation. Transforming relationships defined by cycles of violent conflict requires the careful nurturing of a "mediative capacity" across society.

MARC GOPIN

Shared Public Space and Peacemaking:

New Visions of Place in Israel and Palestine101

Sacred space is one of the most powerful religious phenomena in the world. The success of any peace process in the Israeli-Palestinian conflict will hinge on the parties' ability to share it.

Securing the Homeland

STANSFIELD TURNER

A New Deal on Disarmament: The Case for

American Leadership in Combating Nuclear Proliferation115

President Jimmy Carter's CIA director argues that until the world can find some way to bring about total nuclear disarmament, a new regime for managing the world's nuclear weapons stocks represents the best compromise available.

HANS BINNENDIJK AND RICHARD KUGLER

Sound Vision, Unfinished Business: the Quadrennial

Defense Review 2001 and the Bush Defense Strategy123

Will the Bush administration's defense strategy help America meet its challenges in the post-September 11 era? A review of The Quadrennial Defense Review Report 2001.

Issues and Policy

HEATHER KILLEN

Lessons from the Internet Revolution:

Where Emerging Markets Go from Here141

While technology firms in emerging markets may be suffering now, the long term poses huge opportunities, particularly for countries that are willing to establish the right kind of business environment. The former Yahoo! vice-president charts the way ahead.

SVEND AUKEN

Wind Power: Learning from Denmark149

Clear policy goals and government support have helped turn Denmark into the world leader in the use of wind power, writes the former Danish Minister for Environment.

AUDREY BUDDING

“The Man Who Overthrew Milosevic:”

Vojislav Kostunica, One Year Later159

Is the successor to Slobodan Milosevic in Yugoslavia a transitional figure, like the Soviet Union's Mikhail Gorbachev? The evidence says he is not: President Voislav Kostunica will remain an important bridge between traditionalists and reformers in the country for a long time to come.

Publications by the Fletcher Community193

The Fletcher Forum of World Affairs aims to provide a broad, interdisciplinary platform for ideas and opinions in international affairs. While we do not expect readers to agree with all of the opinions expressed in these pages, we do hope that readers expect, and value, the publication of divergent and often conflicting viewpoints. This diversity stands behind the very definition of a “forum,” i.e. a public meeting place for open discussion. While the editorial board is responsible for the selection of articles, the opinions expressed here are solely those of the authors and do not reflect in any way the opinions of The Fletcher Forum or The Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy.
