

HUMANITARIAN SEMINAR SERIES

During the 1998-99 Academic year, the Famine Center hosted a number of distinguished academics and practitioners as part of its ongoing seminar series at the Fletcher School and the School of Nutrition. This seminar series is planned again for the upcoming academic year. Listed below are the experts who participated in this seminar series and the topics they presented on:

- Jan 21 Introduction
- Jan 28 *Applying Principals and Ethics of Protection –
Lessons Learned from Kosovo*
Dr. Jennifer Leaning, Physicians for Human Rights
Harvard Center for Population Studies
- Feb 4 Researching Market Behavior in War Zones: Case Study Sudan
Sue Lautze, Director, Livelihoods Initiative
Feinstein International Famine Center
- Feb 11 Building Local Capacities for Peace: Lesson Learned
Mary Anderson
- Feb 18 Funding Issues in NGO's
John Hammock, Director
Feinstein International Famine Center
- Feb 25 The Military & Humanitarian Encounter – Current Issues in US Policy
Roy Williams, Director, Office of Foreign Disaster assistance/USAID
Chair of Humanitarian Studies at Marine College, Quantico, VA.
- March 3 Militarization and the Effects on Southern Sudan Society
Dr. Jok Madut Jok, Medical Anthropologist
Loyola Marymount University
- March 10 *World Response to Internal Displacement –
Current Issues and Current Constraints*
Dr. Francis Deng
- March 17 NGO Personnel and Management Issues in the Field
Angela Raven-Roberts, Director, Social Change Program
Feinstein International Famine Center
- March 31 Topic to be announced
Ms. Jennifer Hyndman, Assistant Professor of Geography
Arizona State University

April 7

Topic to be announced

Mark Duffield

April 14

Humanitarian Ethics

Mr. Hugo Slim, Director, Center for Development Practices

Oxford Brookes University