

I am an artesian well bubbling to the surface.
Radiant rays prove how impeccably pure and pristine these waters are that are me.

Your beams bursting before you,
permeating every molecule that makes me;
Bringing such warmth to my e're frigid depths.

Long have I existed immured,
away from all I hold dear,
Only now does my subsistence have meaning,
my purpose now clear.

Two life sustaining elements
working as one,
You shall forever be my Sun;
and for eternity shall my Waters run.

In absence of the other
we would certainly perish;
It's not soley for this, however,
It is you I truly cherish.

From the way you make me sparkle
on the petal of a flower.
To the uncanny way I marvel at the raw beauty of your power.

How perfect!

You from above I from below;
Without one another the world would be void
the vibrant colors of the rainbow.

Now I await the rapture
Of the most beautiful transformation;
When you draw me nigh to you as sweet condensation.

Hold me close! For when you do
I feel the ebbing of my pain.
Now it's time for the outpouring of your love;
So, let it rain, let it rain, let it rain.
