

IF THE FILM IMAGE IS LESS CLEAR THAN THIS NOTICE, IT IS DUE TO THE QUALITY OF THE DOCUMENT BEING FILMED.

October 29, 1978

Union Leader Urges 'No' Vote On Prop. 5 in Nov. 7 Election

Proposition 5, the smoking restriction initiative on the November 7 ballot, creates another class of lawbreakers and subjects smokers to harassment and prosecution and imposes upon them the status of social outcasts. John DeConcini, president of the Bakery, Confectionery and Tobacco Workers International Union, said this week.

Asserting that Prop 5 is "purely vindictive and punitive legislation" DeConcini said: "We trust that Californians will see the poorly worded attempt at overbroadly restricting the freedom of workers to smoke in the workplace and overwhelmingly reject it in and out of the polls."

DeConcini said that the measure would require restaurants and public places to erect partitions in their non-smoking sections or to post signs showing the percentage of available seats in the area. A provision opposed by many restaurant operators requires both large and small businesses throughout the state to spend upwards of $200 million more to erect partitions in their non-smoking sections or to post signs showing the percentage of available seats in the area. A provision opposed by many restaurant operators requires both large and small businesses throughout the state to spend upwards of $200 million more to erect partitions in their non-smoking sections or to post signs showing the percentage of available seats in the area.

DeConcini said that the measure would require businesses to spend upwards of $200 million more to erect partitions in their non-smoking sections or to post signs showing the percentage of available seats in the area.

Union Leader Urges 'No' Vote On Prop. 5 in Nov. 7 Election

Proposition 5, the smoking restriction initiative on the November 7 ballot, creates another class of lawbreakers and subjects smokers to harassment and prosecution and imposes upon them the status of social outcasts. John DeConcini, president of the Bakery, Confectionery and Tobacco Workers International Union, said this week.

Asserting that Prop 5 is "purely vindictive and punitive legislation" DeConcini said: "We trust that Californians will see the poorly worded attempt at overbroadly restricting the freedom of workers to smoke in the workplace and overwhelmingly reject it in and out of the polls."

DeConcini said that the measure would require restaurants and public places to erect partitions in their non-smoking sections or to post signs showing the percentage of available seats in the area. A provision opposed by many restaurant operators requires both large and small businesses throughout the state to spend upwards of $200 million more to erect partitions in their non-smoking sections or to post signs showing the percentage of available seats in the area.

DeConcini said that the measure would require businesses to spend upwards of $200 million more to erect partitions in their non-smoking sections or to post signs showing the percentage of available seats in the area.

VOTE NO on PROPOSITION 5

Proposition 5, the smoking restriction initiative on the November 7 ballot, creates another class of lawbreakers and subjects smokers to harassment and prosecution and imposes upon them the status of social outcasts. John DeConcini, president of the Bakery, Confectionery and Tobacco Workers International Union, said this week.

Asserting that Prop 5 is "purely vindictive and punitive legislation" DeConcini said: "We trust that Californians will see the poorly worded attempt at overbroadly restricting the freedom of workers to smoke in the workplace and overwhelmingly reject it in and out of the polls."

DeConcini said that the measure would require restaurants and public places to erect partitions in their non-smoking sections or to post signs showing the percentage of available seats in the area. A provision opposed by many restaurant operators requires both large and small businesses throughout the state to spend upwards of $200 million more to erect partitions in their non-smoking sections or to post signs showing the percentage of available seats in the area.

DeConcini said that the measure would require businesses to spend upwards of $200 million more to erect partitions in their non-smoking sections or to post signs showing the percentage of available seats in the area.

Proposition 5, the smoking restriction initiative on the November 7 ballot, creates another class of lawbreakers and subjects smokers to harassment and prosecution and imposes upon them the status of social outcasts. John DeConcini, president of the Bakery, Confectionery and Tobacco Workers International Union, said this week.

Asserting that Prop 5 is "purely vindictive and punitive legislation" DeConcini said: "We trust that Californians will see the poorly worded attempt at overbroadly restricting the freedom of workers to smoke in the workplace and overwhelmingly reject it in and out of the polls."

DeConcini said that the measure would require restaurants and public places to erect partitions in their non-smoking sections or to post signs showing the percentage of available seats in the area. A provision opposed by many restaurant operators requires both large and small businesses throughout the state to spend upwards of $200 million more to erect partitions in their non-smoking sections or to post signs showing the percentage of available seats in the area.

DeConcini said that the measure would require businesses to spend upwards of $200 million more to erect partitions in their non-smoking sections or to post signs showing the percentage of available seats in the area.

687017733