

LOST IN THE MIND

Lost in the Mind from being held to a limited process of thinking, from not knowing the way to travel from being captured and thrown into slavery, a million miles to go! headed in one direction lost beyond the wilderness of the Mind, Lost in the Mind searching for a way to understand life again as a normal person, one step closer to having my mental capacity restored once again from trying to remain strong in the battlefield of the Mind.

Lost in the Mind or the Mind being lost to a tragic situation that struck a nerve from a pain that couldn't be healed due to the weakness of the Mind not being strong enough, Are we all lost in the Mind of never ending thoughts? or are we lost in never ending thoughts of the lost Mind?

To understand the lost Mind we have to find our thoughts, to begin a path back to the Mind that has become lost, you find your thoughts from how you think in order to control your Mind from being lost. Being lost in the Mind is where we discover new places, either good or bad, you find your heaven or hell, you become stronger or weaker, but only you can become the thinker of the lost Mind.

In time we develop a Mind that is able to obtain knowledge that has been lost of the Mind from which it came, the power it holds is meant to be passed along to the Mind that is searching to be found. Never the less, only being lost in the Mind will one find his or her true meaning of wisdom, which is called Lost in the Mind.

By Charles L. James King
#