New Phone System to be Completed by X-Mass Break

Northern Telecom, Inc., a Texas based private telephone corporation, has been on campus since early September installing an updated phone system which is slated for completion by the semesters end. This 1.5 million dollar project will upgrade all university phones, including dormitory extentions

"The old manual switchboard system was outdated," said Vice President of Plant and Services, David Moffatt; "the training and management of the number of operators needed for the present system made it an overly labored-intensive activity, and just the kind of thing we're trying to phase out."

He added that the simplicity of the new system would allow the university to use more student operators than does the present switchboard; "it's a matter of an hour of training versus a week for the old way."

The new lines will also dramatically improve the quality of data transmission which is "awful" at present, said Moffatt. "The noise level on the existing lines has been terrible for the past five or so years," he said, explaining that the use of "voice grade" systems may result in erroneous data transmissions. " The improvements should be a tremendous help to the computer and all those who use it."

There will be no charges in dialing procedure as a result of the updating except that a few important numbers which may be presently reached only through the switchboard will be available directly from an outside line.

The new switchboard will be placed on the library roof "to get the system out of the basement of Ballou and to keep in touch with the geographical center of the campus,"said Moffat

Trustees Streamline Committee Structure Last Weekend

by Jack Barette

As a part of the meeting last weekend, a proposal by a committee of the trustees was accepted which served to "streamline what has been in the past an extraordinarily cumbersome machine," said President Jean Mayer.

The present management committee was merged with the Executive Committee to form a smaller, five-member Executive Committee. This group will represent the trustees as a whole, and will meet every two weeks. " this sort of structure should allow these people to gain a better overall view of the university," explained Mayer.

The creation of three other major committees should provide for "a stronger internal administration by involving more trustees in the university process," according to Mayer. These groups include: a combination of the former Building and Grounds and Personnel Policy committees into a new body called "Administration and Finance," an improved educational policy committee, and a continuation of the present Development Committee.

The proposal also provided for the strengthening of the visiting committees for various schools. "there will be a trustee present on each of these committees from now onk." stated May-from now on," stated Mayer, "I hope that this will give at least one trustee the opportunity to get familiar with one school." Mayer added that a trustee will also be present at Committee on Student Life meetings. "I'm very happy about the changes," the President intimated, "and I'm looking forward to working within the system."

Letters to the Editor

Things Could Be Worse

To the Editor-

In reference to an article in Tuesday's daily concerning cold meals at Carmichael Dining Hall, what the hell is a lotis? It sounds like a disease or something! Little does Lotis know, the more students complain about the quality of the food provided by Tufts Dining Services, the closer we come to being put on a mass production food service like most Boston schools. We must remember that food prepared for hundreds of people can't always be as good as Mom's home cooking no matter how good the service. The people at dining services are doing their best to make our meals appetizing. This includes the cashiers who Mr. Lotis amusingly depicts in cartoons that look as though they were drawn by a two year old. Perhaps if Mr. Lotis had the opportunity to sample the food at other colleges he would grow to appreciate what we have here and he too could have a "Happy Dinner."

SPIRIT Presents 2nd Annual Talent Show in November

What do Barry and Eliot of Jordan's, The Closet Babies and "Short People" have in common? They performed at last year's First Annual University-Wide Talent Show sponsored by SPIRIT (Society for the Propagation of Internal Rejoicing at Tufts). Due to popular demand, SPIRIT is proud to announce the 2nd Annual University-Wide Talent Show on Saturday, November 14th. Singers, actors and musicians are all encouraged to audition for this evening of fun.

SPIRIT is comprised of students, faculty and administrators who wish to promote spirit, growth and tradition. In addition, they wish to strenthen student-faculty relations and create a sense of community on campus. The Talent Show was successful last year because students were able to interact with their professors and deans on a social, non-academic level. Many students were surprised to find another (talented) side of their professors and vice-versa.

Auditions are being held on Monday and Tuesday nights, November 9th and 10th in Cohen 15 between 7 and 9 pm. The entire Tufts community is invited to pick up audition forms at Dean Toupin's office (1st floor Ballou) before November 6th. Everyone is encouraged to "get their acts together" and come join in on the FUN!

Track Team Seeks Out Existing Talent

by John LeBlanu

Coach Peter Close of the Men's Indoor Track Team is hoping for a good contribution from this year's freshman class, but he is a bit wary. "You wouldn't believe the number of guys who come to Tufts each year with a strong track background that just don't come out for the team," says Close, "The talent on hill is incredible."

Close cites several possible reasons for this lack of participation. He believes many are scared that a sport would take up too much time and would adversely affect their studies. "What a lot of guys don't realize is how flexible we are, replies Coach Close. "I understand that academics take (preference) over other things. I try to work practices around people's afternoon schedules. We have guys that run on their own once or twice a week."

A second reason for lack of participation is people who believe that they are not good enough to compete on an intercollegiate level. "People don't realize what our level of competition is. We're a small Division III school. No one is here on a scholarship for track. We run hard and have fun."

This Thursday, October 29 at 4:00 p.m. on the indoor track will be the first meeting for the Track Team. Coach Close is anxious to see who and how many new faces will be there.

Aloha! Steve mcGarret, Dano and the Five-O Squad agree that I can represent the renewed Tufts spirit as Homecoming Queen. Our enthusiasm will make Homecoming a great day because together all the Tufts students are the spirit of Tufts. And if you don't vote for me, I'll tell Dano to book you. Saturday - Be there, aloha.

Aloha! Steve McGarret, Dano and

Alison Zecha '82 Asian Club

This year, Homecoming is taking on a new spirit. As a senior I would like to be an active participant in my last undergraduate Homecoming weekend. I would like to revive spirit and keep alive the traditions that are an intergral part of the Tufts experience. So let's have a Jumbo homecoming... because Jumbos never forget.

Lola Souza '82

The ideas of electing a Homecoming King and Queen is representative of school spirit and tradition. I enjoy being a part of Tufts through my involvement in a wide variety of campus and community activities. I would be very honored to be elected Tufts Homecoming Queen.

Sheila Buckley J'82

I feel that the symbol of a Homecoming Queen or King which the student body is willing to support always helps achieve a greater spirit at Tufts. I feel very honored to have been nominated, and I feel I could fortify the title of Homecoming Queen with a sense of enthusiasm and dignity.

Renee Williams J'84

As a member of the Tuft's football team, I have seen the great enthusiasm that seems to only come out of Tufts students during Homecoming. So its a great honor to be picked as a finalist in the Homecoming King contest and I hope people will once again get into the school spirit during this year's festivities.

Bruce Cohen A'83

Homecoming is a great weekend. It's a time to put away the books, forget about your troubles, and join the 64 percent who drink to get high. I'm an engineer, I'm Irish, and I play golf. C'mon! Give an underdog a break. Vote for King Kelly.

Paul S. Kelly A'82

I'm not a pompous fool getting my picture in print. I haven't even embraced the Greek way - for four years I've opted for the other alternative. Homecoming is a celebration of Fall, Football, and Tufts for the entire student body and alumni. Choose a King who serves this group. Vote Steve Judelson A'82

Steve Judelson A'82

This year at Tufts, the concept of Homecoming King and Queen has taken on a new meaning. During my three and a half years here, I have played an active part in the growth of Tufts school spirit through academics and varsity athletics. I would be honored to represent Tufts as Homecoming King.

Dorm Feud to Hit Tufts in Mid-November

by Alan Federman

In mid-November a new show will be appearing on TUTV. This show is "Dorm Feud", modeled after the popular game show - "Family Feud".

With help from the IDC, notices will be sent to all dorm presidents to solicit participants for the show. The competition will be in the form of a Tennis Tournament with three contestants from two different dorms competing in a single elimination round.

In each contest there will be four rounds of questions - and an auxiliary question in case of a tie. Tables will be set up in front of dining halls to get questions from students to use on the show.

The show's producer is Andy Harrison and its Executive Producer is Stephanie Maze.

Also coming up on TUTV is "General University", which will be shown in the first week in November, and a Lee Baird Special, Tufts football, the "Roommate Game" and "Blind Date". Anyone interested in working for TUTV is encouraged to visit their office in Curtis Hall. Stay Tuned!
