

Questionable Freedom

What is it to be free?

Someone in the same predicament as me would say to be on the other side of these walls, that's only true to an extent because I know some free people who are not free at all.

If you're locked behind anything your liberty is stripped. Although emancipation was proclaimed, when you're living like this; Freedom is a gift.

Gifts come without fees, so why is my freedom not free?

Many people are released daily into another form of captivity, to a lifestyle that leads to charges that are as expensive as their lives. I guess they didn't lie when they said; Freedom comes with a price.

Lifestyle is a choice and we can choose our price of living. For me freedom is refund for all the life that I have given.

Once my life is returned the choice is up to me and freedom becomes that famous poetic question.

To be or not to be...
