

Social Reject by Adam Hanrahan

I've always hated everyone nobody's friend, brother or son I'm alone but not lonely A counselor told me you'll like a lonely life but nobody understands me not even my wife

So what am I to do

I want to be myself not you fuck societies' rules cus I'm not afraid of penitentiary blues

I wear them anyway freedom means shit to me

Home is where I lay my head like Metallica said wherever I may roam, where I lay my head is Home completely alone or otherwise

What lays ahead is our demise so fuck a friendly disguise

I am what I am, a philosophical man like Socrates and Plato they taught me to let go cus all I really know

I know nothing at all but still I stand tall

Lonely and All
